First of all we have been reading the different reports from the previous groups. We have decided to go for the Control AIBO project.

During the first week, we have been installing the OPEN-R and Tekkutso. We have had some problems with the installation though, because some files were removed after the installation of Tekkutso without any particular reason. This was very time consuming, we had to search for the problem and finally we had to reinstall both OPEN-R and Tekkutso. We tried to make the dog to move his head and also to stretch its legs, and we succeed.

Also some of the group member tried to set up group connection to the wireless LAN.
