Guidelines for the examination of labs and assignments

The teacher in charge of the course is responsible for drawing up a marking policy for written assignments and laboratory assignments (i.e. setting a time for marking, rules on complementing tasks, publication of results, consequences of late submission, etc.). This policy shall be made clear to the students at the start of the course and to teaching assistants in such good time that there is time to plan the work of marking.

Written assignments and laboratory assignments shall be marked within a reasonable time for the students if they are handed in before the deadline. It should be possible to submit compulsory assignments and laboratory assignments after the deadline on some specified occasions, for example, in connection with reexams.